Since NORGÄTE was founded in 2016, we've been committed to transparency, ethical practices and environmental sustainability.

Dialogue and respect is our base, thus seeking greater equity in the international trade. We contribute to sustainable development by offering good working conditions, better prices and securing the rights of our knitters. Making a positive impact in our community and our planet is essential to us.

Today our knitting network reach 20 associated workshops, which include more than 150 families. Approximately around 40% are women. Each piece is distinctively conceived and crafted in Peru.

ENVIRONMENTAL COMMITMENT

We contribute to our mother earth and make a difference to reduce their impact by manufacturing small items with yarn leftovers and the waste from cutting out patterns. All of our collections are produced in small quantities and only make more if its demanded in pre-order.

To make strategic design choices we need to think on the three 'R's' - Reduce, Reuse, Recycle. Norgäte Zero-Waste fashion design eliminates pre-consumer textile waste and is so much more than just cleverly arranging pattern pieces.

DESIGNED TO LAST

We wanted to create timeless garments, a unique piece that you will enjoy for years, even decades to come. All the garments are designed to last and to accompany you in your adventures.

NORGÄTE collections are designed by sibilings Claudia & Carlos, we want to reflect a sense of simplicity and at the same time lux, functional and beautiful alpaca and cotton clothes.

Our goal in creating each collection is to empower our consumers to remove a layer of clutter from their world leaving space for more joy from just living life.

CAN FASHION EVER TRULY BE RESPONSIBLE?

YES! When you choose style and good design over trends.
Buy better, Buy less.

With the mission to make luxury more accessible, we started with a clear purpose. We wanted to create a brand that cares for the environment, for real. We wanted to show that fashion can be done differently. In touch with nature. Fair & responsible.

FAIR TRADE COMMITMENT

We care. About you, about the environment, about the people that work for us, the people that knit and sew for us, and the impact our clothes make on you and our world.

We believe in transparency and sustainable manufacturing practices. We are fair trade certified. Our workshops & farms are certified as safe, free of discrimination and child labour & receive excellent prices, benefits and education.

Crafted with care & attention, by some of the most skilled hands in Peru.

CONTRIBUTE TO A BETTER PLANET

We do not use any fossil fuel-based synthetic materials (polyester, for example) because of their polluting nature (water and air).

Our raw materials and dyes are certified or meet high environmental and social standards.
